

A Stronger Community: Using ACS and Other Community Data to Target Neighborhood Enrichment

Toby Sallee, Institute for Policy Research at the University of Cincinnati

Annie Ryan, United Way of Greater Cincinnati

Goal of the Analysis

- To identify subareas within the City of Cincinnati that could benefit from targeted enrichment to increase quality of life
- Have previously identified five neighborhoods in the urban core for a place based approach to comprehensive community development

Identifying Areas of Need and Potential

- Involved local LISC, Community Building Institute at Xavier University, United Way of Greater Cincinnati, University of Cincinnati Institute for Policy Research, City of Cincinnati, Hamilton County, and others
- Analysis was based around the Bold Goals in Education, Income and Health
- Analysis also took into account neighborhood capacity and size

About the Data

- Used three data sources to perform the analysis
  - American Community Survey
  - Education data from the Ohio Department of Education
  - Health data from the Cincinnati Health Department

About the Data

- Data from the American Community Survey falls into three main categories:
  - Demographics:
    - Total population
    - Child population
    - Unemployment, 30-44 years of age
    - Unemployment, 45-69 years of age
  - Income:
    - 100% poverty
    - 200% poverty
  - Education:
    - Associate's degree or higher
    - Bachelor's degree or higher

About the Data (ACS continued)

- Tract level data were aggregated to the neighborhood level
  - Based on Statistical Neighborhood Approximations (SNAs)
  - Part of Neighborhood Profiles

Census Tract Based Neighborhood Approximations

Factors

Resources

Recommendations

- Suggested that smaller neighborhoods combine into coalitions
- Recommended 3 neighborhoods as possible locations for targeted interventions based on need, impact, capacity, and leverage

Limitations

- Different geographic boundaries
- Recent, dramatic shifts in a neighborhood would not be captured
  - 5-year ACS
  - Data from various years

Next Steps

- Engaging organizations and individuals active in the target communities
  - LOI to identify areas interested in additional support
- Expanding out of the City
  - Problems finding compatible data
  - Tristate
